OPEN HOUSE AT POLICE STATION

Ceremonies to Begin At 11:00 A.M. May 6

In the old Carmel Police Station, an arresting officer had to keep a constant eye on his prisoner while booking him because there were many avenues of escape which the prisoner could take if not watched over every moment. But now, with the efficient, modern facilities built into the new Police Station between Junipero and 4th, he doesn't stand a chance to escape. The prisoner is locked in a holding cell, if need be, to await bail or transportation to the County jail. If he is outside the cell; then he can't go anywhere either because all the doors leading into the booking room are operated by electronic locks manipulated from the communications desk.

These are just two of the many outstanding features that can be seen and demonstrated when you visit the dedication of the Police Station at Junipero and 4th during their grand opening celebration Saturday beginning at 11:00 a.m. Highlighting the dedication of the building will be the Cornerstone laying ceremony by the Right Worshipful Eugene S. Hopp,

Carmel's Little League Takes The Field

Fourteen teams took the field Saturday to officially open the Little League season in Carmel.

Unseasonal weather (rain if you please) took its toll of spectators, but regardless, there were still plenty of people on hand to urge their favorite teams to victory. Although the rain was intermittent, it did come down sometimes at the most inopportune times. The flag raising ceremony between the first two games was dampened somewhat, but the boys ignored it and with reverence performed the ceremony.

The fellows were on hand at the field behind the Mission well before the first game began at 10:00 a.m. in which the Giants vs Derek Rayne was on tap.

Excitement came right off the bat during this first game of the season when Derek Rayne and the Giants went into overtime. The victor was the Giants with the final score being 8-7.

The hero of the day was Ronnie De Vincenzi of the Sport Shop. Ronnie smacked the only home run of the day, for which he received free hamburgers, milkshakes, and handshakes. Unfortunately for the Sport Shop, this was the only run across the plate and lost to Camera Craft in an exciting 2-1 contest.

Opening day jitters were evident in this game. Boy's Town dropped their game to P. A. Mac, losing by an unbalanced score of 19-9.

Village Inn and Mission Ranch went into an overtime bout which ended in a score of 8-7 with Village Inn on top. Rocky Point beat Jax Freeze 2-0, and Cypress Plumbing scored 3 runs to Carmel Plaza's 2.

World Affairs Conference At Asilomar

On May 5, 6, and 7 the World Affairs Council of Northern California will present a conference on the subject of "The United States and Europe" at the Asilomar Conference Grounds. Over the past 21 years this meeting has become the outstanding annual international conference held on the West Coast.

It presents as speaker and attracts as participants state, national and international leaders.

William Matson Roth, a distinguished San Franciscan currently in Europe negotiating the Kennedy Round in his capacity as the President's Special Representative for Trade Negotiations, is this year's conference chairman. Some of the major speakers include Miriam Camps, Fellow of the Royal Institute of International Affairs; Charles Lucet, French Ambassador to the United States; Roland de Kergorlay, Monetary Committee of the European Economic Community; Henry Brandon, correspondent for The London Sunday Times.

Action at City Council

Revision of Business License Fees Parking Lot Goes to Planning Commission

The City Council settled much of the business at hand last night at their regular monthly meeting, beginning with the revision of certain business license fees.

It was reported that Mayor Steve Grant and Councilman Herbert Blanks met recently with businessmen of the comunity to get their views and opinions on the subject. Blanks assured the Council that the businessmen were interested and willing to pay their fair share. The first reading was approved with two minor changes including a committee composed of businessmen to be organized to help provide a new ordinance by February 1968.

On the Sunset commercial parking question it was agreed that the Council turn the matter over to the Planning Commission. After two other orders of business, the Mayor called for public appearances on subjects which had not appeared on the agenda to that point. Immediately several citizens came before the Council with the intention of discussing the Sunset question further and voice their opinions. The Mayor announced that the Sunset question had already been discussed and had appeared on the agenda, and asked for subjects which had not appeared thus far. He was eager to add that according to law, public hearings would take place under the supervision of the Planning Commission and later, by the Council.

"Janus" At Studio

Jessica, the feminine lead in "Janus" will be played by Anita Tonn who portrayed Judith in Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" a year ago. Prior to moving here, she was active in the Modesto Little Theatre.

The two men in her life, Gil and Denny, are enacted by Bob Lotz and Dick Vreeland. Lotz is making his fourth Studio Theatre appearance this year, following "The Little Foxes," "Catch Me If You Can" and "Arsenic And Old Lace." Vreeland was seen most recently in "Pipe Dream" at Sunset Auditorium.

Mr. Harper, the tax investigator who complicates the lives of all three leads is played by Ed Shinbrot whose comic roles include Lycus in "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum." A newcomer to local theatre, Emma Jane Hansen, will appear as Miss Addy, a flamboyant literary agent.

Under the direction of Michael Keller, "Janus" will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant through mid-June. Reservations for dinner and show or show only may be made by calling 624-1661 or 624-2321.

Auditions for the tenth summer season of musical comedy at the Studio will be held Sunday at 2:30 and Monday at 7:00. The two shows scheduled to run alternate weeks from June 23 through Labor Day are "Little Mary Sunshine" and "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum."

LINES FROM THE STUDIO

If our new show "Janus" had only opened in January instead of this weekend, we could have pointed to the happy coincidence that Janus was the Roman god of portals who gave his name to the month. Those who have the good fortune to see our production will learn why the author chose this title: They will also enjoy a witty farce about the eternal triangle, played by such Peninsula favorites as Anita Tonn, Bob Lotz and Dick Vreeland, ably supported by Emma Jane Hansen and Ed Shinbrot. It is all good fun in the best tradition of light comedy and we predict roars of laughter as the plot unfolds. Dinner and show $5.50, show alone $2.75. Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights through June 18.

Chinese Art Gallery Opening

by Frances Chew

Professor Yet-Por Cheng, formerly chairman of the art department at Taiwan National Fine Arts College, held the grand opening of his Chinese Art Gillery (Lincoln between Ocean and 7th) Saturday, April 15. The exhibition, which will be on display for four weeks, features landscapes by Mr. Pei-Jen Hau of Menlo Park and professor Tsing-Ai Lim (Chinese Art Gallery, Waverly St., San Francisco) as well as the familiar Buddahs, animal studies, and landscapes of Professor Cheng.

Before coming to Carmel, Mr. Cheng travelled extensively throughout China, Japan, South Asia, and the West Coast of the United States, holding exhibitions and teaching art in many major cities. Mr. Cheng's own art training has been rich and somewhat unorthodox. At Hangchow National Art College, he studied charcoal drawing and oil and water painting. Later, he worked on commercial design. Most recently he has been perfecting his Chinese brush technique and experimenting in batik.

Examples of Mr. Cheng's virtuosity in these two media highlight the current exhibition. A great favorite of the opening day was the running horse which hangs above the artist's desk. Executed in black ink on paper, the brush strokes display a marvelous sureness and speed.

Some of Mr. Cheng's students, Mrs. Reynolds of Carmel, Mrs. De Hoag and Mrs. McDowell of San Carlos, provided insights on his methods of work. Like the composer who hears his scores before transcribing them, Mr. Cheng sees the relation of object and space before his brush ever touches the paper. He holds his brush in the traditional manner, index and second finger above, thumb and fourth finger below, but sometimes, for greater control, slants the bristle end forward. In search of a special effect, he will even paint with his fingers.

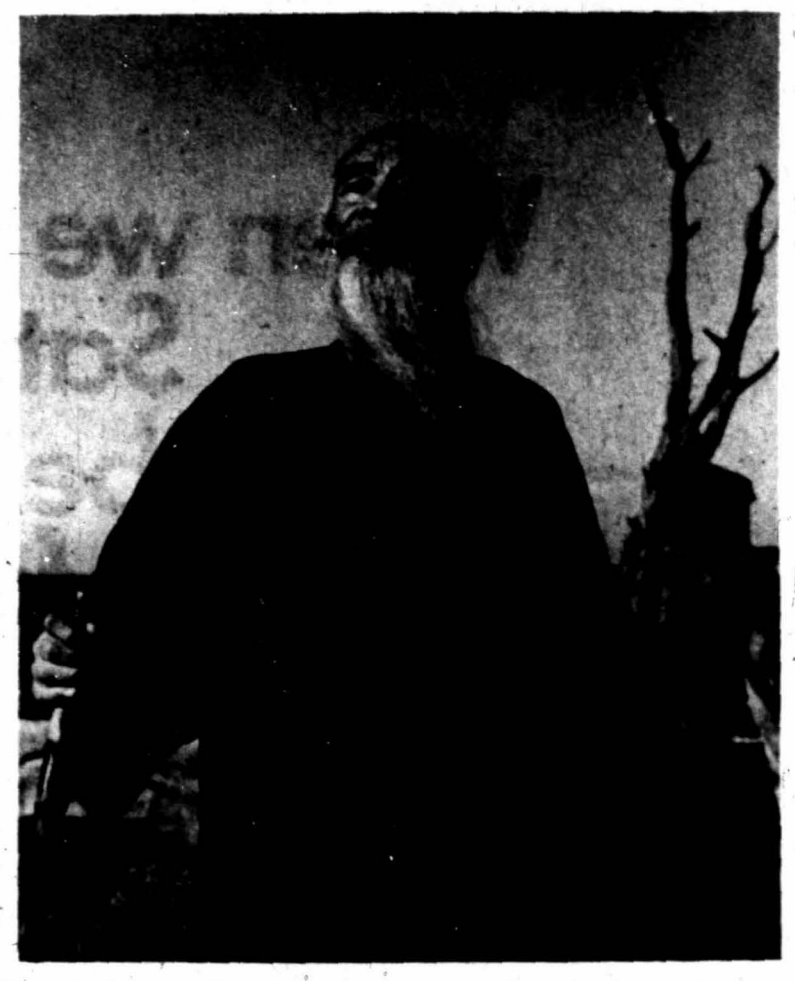
Carmel Schools Spring Music Festival

The Annual Music Festival of the Carmel Unified Schools will take place tonight at 7:30 p.m., in the Carmel High School Gym. A feature of the evenings program will be the performance of two numbers by the massed choruses and instrumental groups. The numbers are a hymn by Saint-Saens "Praise Ye the Lord of Hosts" and the patriotic song "This is My Country".

Five choral groups and five instrumental groups, made up of students from elementary through high school, totaling some 400 students, will be involved in these massed numbers as well as individual numbers by each of the groups.

Parents and friends are cordially invited to the colorful performance by the young musicians of the Carmel schools.

Prominent Chinese Artist Visits Carmel



Pictured above is Chang Dai-Chien famous Chinese painter who visited Carmel last week. He will be holding a one man show here sometime in July and was enchanted by Carmel and the scenery. In recent years he has had a number of one-man exhibitions in Europe, America and Asia. He has exchanged paintings with Picasso and in 1958 was awarded the "Gold Medal" by the Internationl Council of Fine Arts in New York.

Les Rhinehart, above, displays the Spanish Lace Skirt which earned him the special award in weaving during the 1966 El Cerrito Plaza Art Festival. Rhinehart is a teacher of flute and piano and has woven for over nine years. The Studio Weavers of Carmel have again applied to enter the Art Festival in El Cerrito, for this year's show.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

"Barbecue Season is On!"

Barbecue fires are starting all over our Peninsula now that the rains have come and gone. So Party Plans is beginning a series of barbecue specialties for your summertime enjoyment.

A favorite outdoor approach to shrimp is by way of the charcoal grill.

There are several ways to cook shrimp over a grill. The usual method is to split the shells and remove the veins, then to marinate them. They should be grilled not longer than five minutes, either directly on the grill or in a wire basket. A good way, also, is to shell the raw jumbos, roll them in melted butter, then in bread crumbs and grill them in a wire basket. This gives a crisp coating that everyone applauds. Shrimp addicts also enjoy "shrimp kabobs." Skewered and alternated with a meat or vegetable that contrasts in taste, color and texture, you'll have something shrimply delicious!

Rumaki

Ten water chestnuts cut in half; 5 chicken livers, quartered; 10 bacon slices, halved; 1 tbsp. white wine; ¼ cup soya sauce; 2 tbsps. brown sugar; ½ tsp. grated ginger root.

Take one piece of water chestnut and one piece chicken liver and wrap in half a slice of bacon. Secure with pick. Marinate them in the white wine, soya, sugar and ginger for 2 hours. At serving broil these tidbits over charcoal on small hibachi. Baste and turn until bacon is crisp. Makes 20 rumakis.

Shrimp Kebobs

Three lbs. large shrimp; 2 cups pineapple juice; 4 tbsps. cider vinegar; 2 tsps. Kitchen Bouquet; powdered mace, nutmeg and garlic salt to taste; 4 cans (6 oz., each,) B in B mushroom crowns, or equal amount in fresh mushroom caps soaked in melted butter.

Shell, devein and wash fresh shrimp or defrost frozen prepared ones. Dry on paper towels. Place shrimp in shallow container and cover with marinade made of juice, bottled browning sauce, spices vinegar and garlic salt. Let stand in refrigerator at least 2 hours. Drain shrimp, reserving marinade, and thread on 8 skewers with drained mushrooms. The drained mushroom sauce may be used for basting or for soup, sauce or gravy. Broil over glowing charcoal on large hibachi or grill, turning and basting several times with marinade until just done but still firm and crisp. Do not overcook. Cooking time varies with size of shrimp. As these will shrink, try to have the jumbo size. Makes 8 servings. The rice is easily prepared by using converted or minute packaged rice and adding plumped (briefly soaked in white wine) raisins with butter and salt to taste.

Asparagus Salad

Arrange 3 lbs. of very cold cooked fresh asparagus spears on lettuce-garnished plates. Sprinkle with 3 chopped hard-cooked eggs and finely minced chives. You can further dress up this basic salad by tossing other crisp greens with chopped ripe olives and toasted sesame seeds. Serve the tossed greens from a wooden bowl to which a light olive oil and lemon juice dressing has been sparingly added. Plenty for 10.

Walnut Marmalade Bread

Grind walnuts and mix with your favorite marmalade. Put this zippy mixture into small crocks for each to spread on slices of toasted French bread or quartered hard rolls.

"Easy-As-Pie" Apple Pies

Why not just buy apple pies from your favorite bakery or the frozen section of the grocers? Follow directions on the frozen ones and your discrection with the already baked. Then let each cut his/her own . . . but . . . provide plenty!

New Carmel Cultural Commission Meets

At the first meeting of the new Carmel Cultural Commission on April 26, Doctor James Gilman was elected chairman of the group. Admiral C. W. Fisher was chosen as the vice chairman.

The new commission is a combination of two former ones; the Sunset and the Arts Commissions. Mayor Steve Grant chose members from both bodies after members agreed that their duties overlapped and the village could be served best by a combined commission.

Other members of the new Commission are: Mrs. Patricia Faul, Donald Teague, Peter R. Dyer, Ted Fehring and James Pruitt. The evening meeting was one of routine organizing and the first act was "to confirm the actions of the previous two commissions" in order to provide continuity.

The commission adjourned until May 15 at 7:30 p.m. for a budget session.

REPORTS FROM RLS

By Chandler Meloy

Sunshine Means Happiness

With the sun "pouring" over the campus, it was a really happy week for sports fans and clear skies promise a full sports season now until late May.

Recent events include:

Baseball: Talk about thrills and excitement, this "was the week that was" . . . RLS opens up the week against Palma. Previously Palma had defeated Stevenson 10-1. At the end of two innings it's Palma 5 and RLS 0. Fifteen runs in two games off pitcher Pat Rauber, and only the pro's would have given a prayer for victory.

Well, we have some "pros" at RLS, for Rauber settled down and held Palma scoreless for five innings . . . Dave Basham socks a home run in the third . . . Rauber gets a single followed by a double by Eric Haas for another run in the fourth . . . three walks and a single by Haas in the fifth add two more runs and now it's 4-5 for Palma . . . now with one run down, last of the 7th and John Cann is walked. He steals second, and Mike Greene doubles him home. Next up, Pat Rauber, still stinging from that last Palma hitting attack. On a three and two pitch he singles sharply to left field, and Green whips home to end the game. Talk about thrillers.

Of course, the game against Holy Cross was another story. They got five runs in the first inning, and that was just about the story for the league leaders . . . oops . . . RLS did stay around for the second inning, and the third, and the fourth . . . in fact all the way into overtime in the 8th. Final score was Holy Cross 6 and Stevenson only 7. Bruce Wileman with a double, and Mike Greene with a triple, along with two hits and ten strikeouts by Rauber, and RLS now leads the league with 3-1, along with those other two schools. Coach Dick Zury is quoted as saying: "Whew".

Golf: They just keep rolling along, "like old man River," as they took Bellarmine 22-5 this past week. Jeff Hildebrand again was medalist with a 33 back nine on Pebble Beach (33?) to take honors with a 73. Mike Donahoe filled in for Fred Manning, taking his match, and Coach Wilson had praise for all the players. This was a warm-up for the CAA league championships this week.

Tennis: Coach Jerry Keuhn did a little experimenting against Bellarmine, including bringing up some JV's and not playing his top players in the singles. Bellarmine was not fooled by this strategy, and managed to win 6-3. Mike Machette and Ed Scott lost their first double's match of the year while Ron Marston took his singles, and combined with Steve Dart to win the doubles. Geoff Haynes and Tom Gardiner both played well in their losing efforts and the team is looking forward to three games this next week.

Track: As the saying goes, it was a "runaway" as RLS faced the tough Berkeley High team and Bellarmine Prep school. Berkeley, with more men out for track than RLS has enrolled, and Bellarmine with over 900 students just had too much power for the scrappy "Pirates." Final score was 105 for Berkeley, 30 for Bellarmine and 23 for RLS in varsity. There were also 3 other divisions, with Chris Wrathers leading the "D" team to second. Spreading our 32 boys into four divisions, we had some fine performances: Larry Kuechler really went big in the 880, was just nipped in the 220. The relay team of Kuechler, Farber, Wilson and Covell took a strong second while Covell had a fourth in the 100, a second in the broad jump and a third in hurdles. Rick Johnson, Mike Domenici, Mike Eberley, Don Hicok and Don Hart all had good performances. The CAA championships are on Friday May 12th at 3:00 p.m. at M.P.C. with RLS defending their varsity title and promising a few surprises in the B division.

Outwardbound: One last note, the "Outward Bound" program was presented to the students last week, telling of the great leadership and outdoor training given young men in this unique program. Several centers, some of which have been used to train Peace Corps candidates, are located in the United States. Of special interest to RLS was the outstanding performance of alumni Roy Hartzell this past summer in the Oregon Camp. Such high interest was indicated by the boys that we can expect others to join this coming summer series. "To test yourself as a man" was the slogan that impressed our boys.

Monterey Peninsula College News

Retail Selling Workshop

Monterey Peninsula College has announced a series of retail selling workshops to be repeated, according to MPC Dean of Community Services, Keith Merrill, "as long as a local need is demonstrated."

The workshops designed to train unemployed persons in modern retail merchandising methods, have also been planned to "re-orient" presently employed sales people.

The first workshop will be limited to 50 persons and will open May 6 to be continued Saturday mornings through May 27, 9 to 11 a.m. in room 201 in the new physical sciences building. Howard Boone will instruct.

There will be no charge for enrollment, but interested persons must contact Mrs. Lee in the college business division office to register.

Advanced German to be Offered

A San Jose State College Extension course in advanced German will be given at MPC this summer if there are enough interested students. It would be held June 19 through July 28.

The three-unit course provides reading and discussion in German of poets and novelists correlated with the history of German culture. Fourteen units of German or German birth are a prerequisite to enrollment.

Interested persons should call Mrs. Erica Karohs who will instruct the course, if it is offered, at 375-9821.

Leroy R. Johnson to Speak

Leroy R. Johnson, senior senator in the Georgia legislature for three terms and the first Negro to be seated in that body in 92 years, will lecture at MPC Thursday, May 11 at 8 p.m. in the Armory.

Mr. Johnson's topic will be "The Negro in Southern Politics." Free tickets will be available at the college administration building switchboard a week preceeding the lecture or may be obtained by mail when requests are accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Ashes and Diamonds" Film at MPC Tomorrow Night

"Ashes and Diamonds," billed as "the finest film ever made in Poland," will be shown tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the MPC music hall. Tickets will be 75 cents for the general public and 50 cents for MPC student-body members. They may be purchased at the music hall door after season tickets holders have been seated.

"Charity Week Talent Show and "Shindig"

The climax of "Charity Week" events at MPC will be two events open to the public: a student talent show tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. to midnight and a "shindig" on Saturday, 8 p.m. to midnight.

Proceeds from the week will go to the World University Service, the MPC Emergency Loan Health Fund and local charities.

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

We have a new reference tool which we want to call to your attention. It is called SWEET'S ARCHITECTURAL CATALOG FILE. There are 12 volumes of it, and it lists catalogs of suppliers of all types of materials for the building trades. It is specifically directed toward architects. The set was a gift to the library. The bright thought comes that persons who are building new homes might use this set to check their architects specifications.

There will be no new book list at the library this week. Our catalog department was being shifted from room 2 to room 14 in Sunset and cataloging was simply out of the question. We have been unable to furnish files of back magazines for three weeks due to this move, but now we are again able to do this. We know you were much inconvenienced by this, and we are sorry. There is a sign over the door of room 14 which is on the Mission Street side of the building, which says: Harrison Memorial Library Annex. Come and see us there.

THE EIGHTH DAY is Thornton Wilder's first book since 1948. In the prologue Wilder has one of his characters say "The Bible says that God created man on the sixth day and rested, but each one of those days was many millions of years long. That day of rest must have been a short one. Man is not an end but a beginning. We are at the start of the second week. We are children of the eighth day." The book begins in 1910 when John Ashley was tried for the murder of Breckinridge Lansing was convicted, and on his way by train to the state penitentiary where he was to be executed. He was mysteriously rescued. From this point on, it is a collection of life stories of the various people concerned with the Ashleys and the Lansings. These people are human, earnest, and decent.

Leo Rosten will always be remembered as the creator of H*Y*M*A*N* K*A*P*L*A*N. His new book is an espionage thing, well done, and entitled A MOST PRIVATE AFFAIR. Reviewers say that it is a thing of smoke and silk, the dialogue being silk and some of the details obscured by smoke.

Fred Friendly now serves as a Professor of Broadcast Journalism at Columbia University. Prior to that he was actively engaged in broadcasting the news over CBS and was a co-worker with Edward R. Murrow. Friendly's new book is entitled DUE TO CIRCUMSTANCES BEYOND OUR CONTROL. . . . This is thesinside story of the news business as expressed through radio and television. Fascinating.

Finally, we should mention LETTERS FROM VIETNAM by Bill Adler. This is a collection of letters from many people with one thing in common; they were writing from Vietnam. They were speaking about the thing they know from experience . . . the war. Some were for it and some were against it . . . all had something to say. This collection of letters has no political bias and there are no hidden arguments on any side or subject. Here are letters from participatns in the war who had something to say. Come and read.

Ruth Galvin Thornburg
Chief Librarian.

Royal Splendor In The Soviet Union?

by Mira Talbot

Each My Most Interesting Trip story has been written by an entrant in the Pine Cone's travel contest. Following publication, Carmel travel agents will select three winners. First prize will be a $50 U.S. Savings Bond. Two $25 bonds will be awarded, also.

Sometimes I wonder: Was I really in the Soviet Union, the Peoples Russia? Did I actually walk through the Winter Palace, the very palace stormed by the revolutionaries on that infamous day in October 1917? Did I, along with hundreds of others in a solemn single line, file past the life-like corpses of Lenin and Stalin officially dressed yet lying prone on a platfrom in the Mausoleum of the Kremlin? Did I dine,—or rather eat since we were served boiled potatoes and cabbage—in the ballroom of the grand old Astoria hotel in Leningrad, the setting chosen by Hitler for the celebration of the anticipated victory over Russia?

My diary of 1959 tells me that I did.

Although everything surpassed my expectations—overwhelmed me in fact—the ostentatious display of superfluous wealth surprised me the most. Was this a Socialistic State aiming toward Communism or a Czarist regime? Our attractive girl guide explained, in English, this seeming paradox: "Before the Revolution, the palaces, the museums, and the theaters were reserved solely for the royalty and the nobility. Today our leaders are giving back to us, the people, what rightfully always belonged to us."

And indeed they are! They are restoring autentically the very institutions of royalty and religion that they themselves destroyed. But today, the edifices are being used as museums, just as, whole towns. In all its former majesty, Petrodvarets, the summer palace of royalty, destroyed by the Nazis, stands again overlooking its cascades of fountains on terraced gardens descending to the Baltic. Here, as everywhere, there is gold and guilt.

To restore St. Isaacs' Cathedral, third only in size to St. Peter's in Rome and second to St. Paul's in London, the Soviet State spent twenty-eight million dollars in 1928. The Cathedral's massive golden dome towers over all of Leningrad with its low buildings spread over myriads of islands spanned by no less than 600 bridges. (This enchanting city is called the Venice of the North.) Of Italian design, the church-museum has walls and floors in varying shades of marble and its columns are faced with malachite and lapis lazuli. It weighs nearly three hundred thousand tons. Both the exterior and interior are lavishly decorated.

The building can hold 13,000 people, but the hundreds, old and young alike, who come daily are moved along for the tour. According to our guide, "they come to view a relic of by-gone era, the pre-scientific period, for no one in Russia except for the very elderly believes in religion any more."

The Winter Palace, also used as a museum, is sheer enchantment. To begin with its has four quite different facades — four faces? One, painted soft green with large white pillars particularly appealed to me. Fortunately, the palace's great wealth of possessions is spread over thousands of rooms; otherwise it would be too oppressive and overpowering.

In the three hundred halls of the Hermitage Museum, there are virtually millions of exhibits. (The intourist guides rattle off statistics like I.B.M. machines). In a two hour tour, we rushed through no less than a hundred rooms of the world's greatest paintings. Especially well represented are the Italian Renaissance and the Dutch and Flemish schools. One picture, Rembrandt's "Return of the Prodigal Son," was worth the trip to Russia, for me anyway.

Preceeding the Revolution, this museum was never open to the public, but every year since then it has been visited by a million people or more. In the eighteenth century. Catherine II considering these treasures her own personal property said: "Only the mice and I can admire it all." Hence, it was appropriately named Hermitage.

Silver embroidered velvet walls lighted by candles in ornate silver chandeliers adorn the throne room. The hand painted ceiling and panels add to its old world charm. Many of the palace rooms have ornamentations of semi-precious stones, and in one room, tons of malachite. Columns, decorated in colorful designs, are reflected again and again in a profusion of mirrors, all framed in heavy gold, giving an illusion of lightness and gaiety to a room, otherwise heavy and oppressive .

Even the modern constructions based on the latest engineering principles seem to have had palatial ballrooms as their prototypes. The stations of the "Metro" in Leningrad and Moscow, for example, are called "Temples of the Working Man," but they are elegant halls! Imagine such depots: one of gray marble with concealed fluorescent lighting simulating daylight, another in various shades of marble with glistening crystal chandeliers, and a third in smalt with a mural of Stalin also is colored glass. Named for political figures and events, the stations are designed accordingly. No two are alike.

There is a museum within the Kremlin devoted to the showing of the crowned jewels and the room is startling, like a dramatic stage setting. It is stark white with lavender stripes curving up and in toward the center of a very high domed ceiling. Gossamery gold curtains hung at the long French windows soften the austerity of the room without detracting from its dignity. It is regal.

The jewels? They, of course, are in glass cases on royal red and royal purple velvet. In awe, we gazed at the size of rubies, emeralds, and diamonds. Quite bitterly, our guide said: "Such precious jewels were used to bedeck the horses of royalty at a time our people were starving to death."

No longer are the people starving but valuable stones are still in use. The mosaic map of the Soviet Union is of ural stones; gilded stars indicate its towns; ruby stars, its capitals; emeralds are used in printing the letters of the names of towns and rubies point up the capital of the U.S.S.R.

The royal splendors seen in the Soviet Union remind one of the story of a leading revolutionist. Following the massacre of the Czarist family his hands and arms still dripping with blood he leapt onto the throne crying out: "Now I am King!"

The Complete Gardener

. . . a regular diet of information having to do with plants

We are now into our fifth month of the garden column and, as expected, an increasing amount of mail has been forwarded to us.

Two of our readers are already anticipating damage from foraging deer. What kinds of plants, they want to know, are deer-proof? Oleander, if your climate is on the warm side. Also leptospermum, bamboo, diosma, rock rose, flax, heather, marguerite and gazania. There are some borderline plants that might merit a nibble. Your nurseryman can show you these plants and suggest others.

"Where can I get my soil analyzed?" The best service we've found in this area is the Soil Control Lab 144 W. Lake St. in Watsonville. On request they'll send you bags in which you can mail your soil samples. Reports are usually forthcoming in 3 or 4 days.

"Last year I tried to grow carrots and had a horrible time. They were twisted, dwarfed, forked, and riddled by worms. Is Danvers the wrong variety for Carmel Valley?" Danvers is a good standard market carrot but, like the others, it needs a light, sandy loam. Lumps, rocks, or trash in the soil causes twisting and forking. Soils should contain a good supply of superphosphate, or 0-10-10, before the seed is sown. When the carrots are about 3 inches tall side-dress with a band of 10-10-5 fertilizer, placed 2 inches on each side of the row. Water deeply about once a week, or oftener if the weather turns hot and the carrot tops show signs of wilting. To control wireworm damage treat the soil with a granular insecticide before planting. This is also a sound practice whenever root crops are planted.

"May I suggest a hint for the gals who don't like to wear gloves: Wet a cake of soap and rub it into your hands until there's no moisture left. Then scrape your fingernails into the soap. When you're through gardening just wash off the soap and clean your nails. It's the next best way to save your manicure." Thank you ma'am.

"Can you suggest a slow-growing, flowering shrub suitable for planting among Juniper Tams?" Ask your nurseryman to show you the India Hawthorn (Raphiolepis). This is an evergreen that blooms when you need it most. The flowers appear in February and continue through June. The shrub rests during the summer and produces another crop of blooms in the fall. Pink clusters, fragrant followed by bluish-black berries. It's pest-free, requires little attention, likes full sun, and eventually attains a height of 4 feet.

Next week: pest control in the garden.

LINES FROM LOIS

What's In a Name?

PLENTY IF

—The Builder's Name is Hugh Comstock
—The Place Name is Carmel Point

IN CARMEL'S MOST DESIRED LOCATION we have just listed a timeless traditional home suiting perfectly the many moods of Carmel. Friendly wood fires in a handsome fireplace in a wood-paneled, gracious living room, or in the cozy kitchen for the misty days. Mullioned windows open to intimate little patios for enchanting "looking" when it's gloomy and outdoor enjoyment when it's sunny, all enclosed by fine old stone walls which have taken on a lovely patina over the years.

IT'S A TWO-STORY, STORYBOOK HOUSE, ON A LARGE SCALE, built with Hugh Comstock's usual attention to fine construction and infinite detail, and the floors and millwork reflect his personal interest. The special taste and care in decorating by the present owners underscore all the mellow charm and graciousness of an earlier time.

AN ENGLISH COLONIAL LADY would feel right at home in the charm of the country kitchen, yet every modern convenience is unobtrusively incorporated, and this is typical of the feeling in the entire house. It's just around the corner from the sea, so beach-walking is always your pleasure. (For that matter, just walking around Carmel Point itself is a special delight!)

There are too many interesting details in this fine home to list here. If traditional architecture is your fancy, and if the price is within your range, why not allow us the pleasure of showing you just what it has to offer.

Price $98,000.

P. S.—We're sorry if you missed out on that little Comstock "original" at $25,000, or the newer provincial cottage at $22,000. Both were sold over the weekend.

City Council

The Council proceeded. They accepted with "real regret" the resignation of Wallace Doolittle as Forestry Commissioner. Mayor Grant recommended Ray Taylor, veteran forester and reseacher, to replace Doolittle. The Council approved this recommendation.

The Council announced that Charles McEwen, Carmel realtor and long time resident of the Village, had accepted a post on the Planning Commission.

The former Sunset Commission, now a part of the Cultural Commission, recommended a revision in the rates charged for rooms at the school. The proposal is to charge rent based on square footage at the rate of 10 cents per square foot. Dr. James Gilman was on hand and said, "This would put income more in line with expenses."

Also for consideration of the Council, submitted by the Arts Commission, the other half of the Cultural Commission, was the request that the Council adopt the policy that donations at performances at the Forest Theatre be received in the General Fund, the budget increased by that amount, and the funds assigned to the Forest Theatre for further additional performances. This was approved.

At last night's meeting the Council aproved the annexation of Mission Tract II to become effective in 30 days. Also, the Council approved the establishment to two 20 minute parking spaces on Junipero in front of the new Police Station, a one hour parking zone in front of the old station and a loading zone on the corner of Monte Verde and Ocean.

A report from the commissioners was filed and the meeting adjourned.

Charlene Jan Karnow became Mrs. Michael Rion Hohler, April 15, at the Carmel Valley Community Chapel. Reverend Donald Johnson officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Charlene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Karnow of Carmel, chose a floor length gown of saki material for her wedding. The dress, fashioned with a bateau neckline, and three-quarter sleeves, featured a tiered back panel skirt, edged with Viennese lace. She carried an old fashioned bouquet.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Ronald Smith, of Los Angeles, and bridesmaids Valerie Hohler, sister to the bridegroom, Laura Craig, Inglewood, and Pamela Redhead of Carmel wore street length gowns of pale blue bonded crepe with imported lace insets. Their matching blue hats were pillboxes with circlets of tulle.

Best man duties were performed by Frank Snyder of Edwards AFB. The ushers were Charles M. Karnow, Gerald W. Karnow and Steven Hohler.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hohler of Carmel Valley.

Open House

Senior Guard Warden of California F&AM.

Also on hand will be the Carmel High School Choir and marching band; color guards from the Boy Scouts, Knights of Columbus, and the American Legion; the Honorable Herbert Heron to give the pledge of allegiance; Reverend Lloyd Johnston to give the invocation, and the Reverend Alex C. Bryans to give the benediction. Guides through the building will be the police officers' wives and a Carmel Christian youth group. On the dedication committee will be Stephen A. Grant, mayor; Herbert B. Blanks, councilman; Clyde Klaumann, police chief, and James R. Belvail, fire chief.

Actual operation of the new station began April 10 ending an 18 year stay in the old building at Mission and 7th which was considered "temporary housing." Also included in this magnificent structure will be the quarters for paying traffic violations which will be moved from the City Hall today and be "open for business" tomorrow.

In the communications center a burglar alarm panel has been erected and will connect participating shops and businesses, which have alarm systems installed, with the police department. Any unauthorized entrance into these buildings will show up on the panel and an officer will be dispatched immediately to that location.

Chief Cylde Klaumann's men now will find it easier to comply with his orders to fire 50 rounds of ammunition each week. On the second level of the complex a 75 foot firing range has been constructed and will be dedicated to James Buffington, Jr. This range is considered to be one of the safest in existence. The men will fire from booths with partitions of lead to eliminate any possibility of accidents. Other unique measures have been taken to provide his men with the ultimate in safety.

He and his men have facilities to load all of their practice ammunition. They melt the lead, get the brass from the FBI shoots, and actually manufacture their own ammo. This represents quite a savings because it only costs the department 50 cents to load a box in comparison to the $3.75 per box retail.

Also included in the building is a gigantic garage-maintenance area to house the Street Department vehicles. Here the various pieces of equipment may be worked on, gassed, greased, and generally kept in good order. This section is located south of the main police station section and is completely camouflaged from the street. It is a fine example of utility and beauty and must be seen to be appreciated.

Little League

The last game of the afternoon was called in the 3rd inning due to rain. Mediterranean Market and Cate Electric will play this game off at another time.

So it went the first day of the Little League season. Over a hundred Carmel youngsters went home after a hard day in the field . . . some a bit happier than others, but each knowing his day will come.
